HE NOW writes it James Gordon Bennett, because he thinks the hyphen is aristocratic.

WHEN GRANT was in office he was the "eldest man," the "sphinx," etc., but he was a regular chatterbox compared with Arthur.

IN A New York cigar factory a lot of "men" are striking because a woman has been employed there. The woman must be confoundedly ugly, or there is something radically wrong with those male bipeds.

THIS YEAR'S cotton crop in the south is estimated at 4,709,287 bales, or 3,079,190,272 pounds. The average price is 10c. per pound, which would yield to the producers $307,919,027.20. A few more such years and the south will not be regarded as poor.

THE NEW YORK Sun publishes by request the communication of a Christian who says he has been informed in a vision that the world will come to an end in 1881. He wants the world informed in order that the wicked may have an opportunity to repent.

TWO of the alleged star route rogues have been indicted by the Washington grand jury. Neither the attorney general, the district attorney nor the postmaster general dares accept a two to one bet that the cases will ever go to trial, nor a four to one that a conviction will be brought about.

IT MUST be very annoying to the Rev. DeWitt Talmage when Guitteau talks about the Mormons as he did on the witness stand on Tuesday. The prisoner knocks Talmage's theory higher than Beecher's "Life of Christ" was knocked. The Mormons should thank Guitteau for the compliment he paid them.

THE ST LOUIS Republican says: "Mrs. Langtry is going on the stage. New York will have the first sight of her. They say it is no mistake this time." Bah! Mrs. Langtry has grown as fat as a fishwoman, has a two-months old baby, doesn't wear jerseys anymore, and is "out" with all the titled people of England. She wouldn't draw now even in a beer garden.

THE NEW YORK Times closes an editorial article on the contest for the Utah delegate's seat in Congress as follows:

The question is, Shall Mr. Campbell, who was elected to the next House, or Mr. Cannon, who was a member of the last House, be placed upon the roll by Clerk Adams? Mr. Campbell, it is true, has the Governor's endorsement, but while that is prima facie evidence, and while that is consideration in a contest, it would not weigh for an instant with any man of action, for instance, when it should be made into the equities of the case. We take it that Mr. Campbell to a seat is based on the same argument of the case that was given by Mr. Cannon. This was Cannon being ineligible, and him were as if they the only votes to be cast for Campbell, unquestioned, but receive fewer for placing all of the "state" who "don't"

MRS. LINCOLN'S BEG.

Mrs. Abraham Lincoln is again the subject of a good deal of newspaper talk in this country. In past years there have been two or three conspicuous occasions when this lady excited much comment in the American newspapers. Then as now money was at the bottom of the business; or at least, things with a money value. She is again posing—whether agreeably to herself or otherwise—before the country; not exactly as an old clo' woman, as formerly, but as a poverty-stricken creature, sick, in want, and suffering, not for luxuries, but for absolute necessities. It may be true that Mrs. Lincoln is sick, and in poverty, in which event there is twice occasion for regret; but why should there be all this anguish, all this agony? Congress gave to Mrs. Lincoln $25,000, and voted her an annual pension of $3,000. The pension was not strikingly generous, but we will undertake to say that until Lincoln was president he never spent so much upon his whole family in a year. It is not large enough to justify well living, or the putting on of "style," yet it is sufficient to make a single lady, raised as Mrs. Lincoln was, not only comfortable but provide her many luxuries. Comparatively few ladies in America spend so much for themselves. But there is another thing in connection with this matter which is forced upon the public mind: Why should Mrs. Lincoln come before the country as a beggar for alms, while her son is drawing $10,000 a year and perquisites from the national treasury? Robert Lincoln is secretary of war solely because he is the son of his father. His father's services gave the young man the position, and the salary is in the nature of a pension to the Lincoln family. The sum is large enough that Robert can pay his mother's doctor bills and still save something, while living far beyond the style to which he was accustomed, even as the son of a President in the White House. He is unlike most sons if he would not be proud of the privilege of supporting his mother, and making her comfortable and happy. The ordinary young man would blush at the thought of his mother asking alms.

It is questionable if Mrs. Lincoln would have come before the country at this time as a pauper, had it not been for the too generous conduct of the American public in bestowing some hundreds of thousands upon the widow of the late President. The relief of the martyred Lincoln, cranky as she has sometimes shown herself to be, is sharp enough to see that Mrs. Garfield was the pet of the people, in a financial way, and she undoubtedly thinks that now is a good time to bid for popular sympathy. Depriving this matter of all sentiment, looking at it without the "anguish" which some are putting on, and considering it in the mood of cool reason, one can hardly bring himself to believe that more should be done for Mrs. Lincoln. It seems impossible that she should be suffering for anything, but if she is in want her children, not the country, should be proud of the privilege and ability to take care of her.

TOM FITCH is in Tombstone, Arizona, lecturing on "Invisible Police." He couldn't attract an audience in any other town in the United States with such a lecture, for everybody knows all about the subject.
